What a Bath Splash and String Session Includes

Bath Splash and String features rage painting with a live cello where the music will help establish the beats and rhythm when guests splatter and fling the paint on their canvas. The tickets to the rage painting cost £65 per guest. The ticket comes with a 6x4 inch canvas, unlimited paint, three 60 ml tubs of neon or metallic paints, protective wear, and other necessary equipment.

Welcome to Bath Live Cello Sessions

If you like both painting and music equally, then this rage painting bath splash and string session will be a great choice for an afternoon. Participants throw, flick and splash the paint onto a canvas while a live cello plays; its notes influence the rhythm of every step. The address of the studio is 12 Widcombe Parade; it's located very close to Bath Spa station. It turns out that many guests find the afternoon quite calm because of the live music.

Many first-time participants tend to ask if any previous experience in art is necessary. The answer is no. The session itself is self-guided, which means there is no certain technique and nobody will judge you according to the result. The basics will be explained by the staff upon arrival. If you take a couple of minutes to read your booking details, then you'll feel more comfortable.

There are theaters, galleries, historic streets in Bath. People who come here often seek unusual entertainment during their visit, so this live music session will fit perfectly. The team will be ready to answer any questions you have before your slot.

What the Splash and String Ticket Covers

The Splash and String class comes at a cost of £65 per head and also includes a booking fee. The ticket includes the self-led session with live music and everything that is required for the entire process of painting. People often realize that time flies once the painting starts.

Materials and Equipment

The package also comes with A3 canvas, unlimited paint supply and three 60 ml tubes of either neon or metallic paint. The necessary protective gear and tools will also be provided so that you only concentrate on the art itself. Relaxation of mind leads to a better product on canvas.

Lighting and Extras

In addition, there is a UV section of ten minutes as well, and you have Wi-Fi connectivity and a Bluetooth speaker that can be used to listen to your choice of music. Additional items like glitter, large canvas, or shaped canvas need to be chosen while booking online.

Inside the Bath Studio on Widcombe Parade

The Bath studio address is 12 Widcombe Parade, BA2 4JT. The studio has air conditioning and is wheelchair friendly; it can accommodate up to sixteen guests on the ground floor and ten on the upper floor. The spacious design allows guests to have freedom of movement. This class is often chosen by guests as a reward for themselves or their friends.

Guests will be able to park in the streets, with parking being free for one hour. For those planning to stay longer, there are many nearby parking lots listed on Parkopedia Bath parking website. Some preparation will determine how rushed or leisurely the whole experience will be.

There are lockers available for phones, bags and wallets, which ensures that guests' personal belongings will not come into contact with paints. All preparations are done before each class, which means that guests do not have to worry about anything at all. The studio design and live sound make this location unique for Bath.

Live Cello, Lighting and the Session Flow

It is an open session featuring a professional cellist. The sound of the strings creates a very relaxed atmosphere, and often leads to bigger strokes of color combined with faster throws. Visitors usually come back accompanied by their friends because they find it very entertaining.

The Live Cello Sets the Pace

The cello goes up, sustains and dies down throughout the experience. Most people note that their actions mimic these patterns without even being told how, giving the experience a natural flow from start to finish. Most people comment that the live music helps make the afternoon more relaxing than anticipated.

How the Lighting Changes

The majority of the experience takes place under regular lighting conditions. However, an interval of ten minutes with UV lights in the middle makes the paint look different, and most visitors find it a very exciting point in the process. It helps to take some time to check the booking beforehand.

Who Can Take Part in a String Session

This activity is designed for adults over 18 years old. You do not need any art experience, and both absolute beginners and those who like creative activities will be able to participate. The team will be glad to answer all your questions prior to your slot.

The company will definitely be liked by friends because of the great atmosphere, and couples can use live music to make their visit more memorable. This activity will suit those who prefer something new instead of a usual painting class. It is always hard to realize how fast time goes during the painting process.

As the activity is only for adults, children will not be able to join you. You can ask the team whether the activity is suitable for you before booking it.

Why Rage Painting Works With Live Music

For guests who try this format, it has been observed that rage painting is something that offers them the physical outlet which most other art forms fail to give them. They let their feelings come out through the form of movement and once it is done, there is the canvas which is a testimony to all that energy put in. The live strings provide some structure, thus making sure that participants are fully engaged during the process till the very end. Booking the event in advance allows everyone to prepare mentally for the same.

The format is also very convenient from an operational point of view. All that is provided on the day and thus there isn't much to be planned in advance other than the booking itself. Moreover, there is no predefined way and thus guests have the liberty of trying whatever comes to their mind.

Groups, Parties and Shared Bath Visits

Parties comprising of ten or more people will get a five percent discount on their reservation, thus making the event much easier to arrange. The studio is well suited for birthdays, business parties, hens/stags parties and dates, where each individual will paint on their own canvas.

Planning a Group Session

Select a date convenient for all, and know how many people will be attending the event so that you can plan the kind of session to be conducted. Assistance will be provided by the staff where there are many participants, and it is advisable to check with the studio.

Teams and Celebrations

Most of the teams prefer conducting sessions that help them bond outside their workplace. The soothing music and activities help them communicate and laugh without any stress of performing.

Booking, Payment and Rescheduling Options

Booking can be done through the Splasherist website where one can book Bath studio, choose splash and strings package, pick up the time slot and make payment using a card, Apple pay, Google pay, and gift cards. Booking is stated to be done on a secure page.

One can book a 20 percent deposit at the Bath studio meaning that one doesn't have to pay the total amount at the time of booking. Free pre-booking can also be done within 72 hours from the booked time.

Extras can only be chosen during online booking, hence it is always better to know what to choose beforehand.

From Arrival to a Finished Canvas

The event is planned to make you feel relaxed right from the beginning with an opportunity to settle down before the performance starts. Those who arrange themselves to get there have a smooth experience.

Arrival and Protective Gear

Getting there five minutes early will enable you to register and store your belongings in the locker before putting on protective gear. All the necessary gear is supplied to you, which includes overalls, goggles or a visor, shoe covers, and gloves.

The Live Music Begins

With the start of the session, a guide tells you how the process works, and all your equipment is laid out for you. At the end of the period, take a step back and admire your work since most people realize how the painting captures the atmosphere of the music.

Taking Your Canvas Home From Bath

All guests will leave with their A3 canvas from the workshop. Paintings that are no bigger than A3 can be carried home on the day, while paintings that are bigger but not bigger than A2 can either be delivered to you from the studio or picked up at a later date.

Many guests end up hanging their painting at home or showing it off to their friends and family. It is also a very empowering experience for many guests, despite any initial hesitation they might have had.

Book your Bath string session now and experience a different kind of afternoon in the city.
